Against All Odds: The Story of Sage Elisabeth Mom who was held captive at an abortion mill overcomes tremendous obstacles to save her baby's life

Cheryl Sullenger, spokesperson, Operation Rescue
Press Release (Troy Newman, President)

WICHITA, KS - Sage Elisabeth's entry into the world was one that was by no means assured. Sage's mom, a beautiful young woman named Andrea was facing a time of crisis. Life had not been easy for Andrea. Her mother had been murdered in Oklahoma on the eve of her college graduation when Andrea was only three. She had only met her father four or five times in her life, and he had passed away in 2002 from complications of drug and alcohol addiction. She was raised in a small Oklahoma town by her maternal grandmother, who also recently died. This left Andrea alone by the age of 20 and totally dependent on her boyfriend, with whom she already had a 4-year old child. Her boyfriend insisted on abortion for the baby she was now carrying and on December 2, 2004, Andrea succumbed to his pressure. Andrea persuaded her girl friend, Billie to take her from her home in Hutchinson, KS, to Tiller's abortion mill in Wichita for what she falsely told Billie was the removal of a "blood clot." Once at the mill, sidewalk counselors Terry Read and Anna Wood spoke with Billie and gave her a copy of "The Tiller Report, Operation Rescue's exposé on the late-term abortionist." Billie, who was pro-life, was shocked to learn that she had been tricked into participating in an abortion of Andrea's 12-week old child. Feeling betrayed, Billie returned to Hutchinson without Andrea, unaware of the drama unfolding just inside the clinic doors.

Once inside the abortion mill, Andrea had a change of heart. However, when she attempted to leave, she was detained by Tiller's security guard Carl Sweeney who refused to allow her to depart the facility. He kept her against her will for over 30 minutes and only released her after forcing her to sign documents promising not to reveal anything that went on inside the mill to the pro-lifers standing at the gate. Upon gaining her freedom, Andrea realized she was now stranded in Wichita with no way home. She went next door to another business and called her boyfriend, who refused to come and get her unless she returned to the mill for the abortion. He threatened to leave her if she kept the baby. Terry Read called Mark Gietzen of Kansas Coalition for Life because he knew Andrea needed help. Mark is responsible for placing and maintaining 167 white wooden crosses on the grass outside Tiller's mill and keeping the gates manned with pro-lifers each hour of each day the mill is open. Mark offered to drive Andrea back to Hutchinson and she gratefully accepted. Andrea was friendly, but was not yet ready to talk

About us...Action for Life...Our Purpose... Pray to End Abortion...

Above is the current roster. When you PRAY TO END ABORTION please include our membership and our work. As Mother Theresa was famous for saying, we are not asked to be successful, we are just asked to be faithful. God Willing, all of us, in our own faithful way, will continue to promote God's Culture of Life and eliminate the present legal culture of Death.

We are phasing out the name "Naples Pro-life Council" also, although it will work when people use it from habit. Legally, we have always been "Action for Life." If we survive the confusion in doing this, it will, hopefully, be less confusing in the long run.

by Dave Andrusko - dandrusko@nrlc.org - (excerpts)

"Why Isn't Everybody Pro-Life?"

I was particularly struck by the comments of someone who I do not know... Her email was in response to my comments on an article that appears in the August Glamour magazine, provocatively titled, "The Mysterious Disappearance of Young Pro-Choice Women." by Susan Dominus....

She affirmed some of the explanations offered by the author, Susan Dominus, ... And then she made this most interesting observation: "I wonder why everyone isn't pro-life."

...I am absolutely convinced there exists a gigantic untapped pool of pro-life volunteers who not only would be of critical help but who themselves NEED to be able to help. In their hearts, they know they have stood idly by for too long, and they are troubled by their failure to do the right thing. ... But there is something else of supreme importance that goes beyond the obvious need to bring in reinforcements to the greatest movement for social justice of our time...

We need to do many things to bring these new recruits in, but it begins, I suspect, as most volunteer-driven enterprises do: by asking.

about what had happened to her at the mill. Mark respected that and offered to keep in touch with her in case she needed anything. Mark received a call the following day from Andrea's friend, Billie, expressing relief that Andrea had saved her baby and thanking him for helping her.

But all did not go smoothly for Andrea. Her boyfriend's mother continued to pressure her to abort and threatened to kick her out of the home if she didn't. Her boyfriend only agreed to stay with Andrea if she placed the baby for adoption, but Andrea firmly stood her ground and gave birth to little Sage Elisabeth on April 5, 2005. Because of a blood clot in Sage's umbilical cord, she was born a month early and only weighed 5 pounds. Since then she has grown and flourished under her mother's loving care. Andrea's boyfriend, has "taken a shine" to his new daughter and now wants to keep his baby. Even his post- abortive mother has now accepted her new granddaughter.

During a Father's Day visit to Andrea and Sage, Mark was asked to save another baby for the prospective adoptive couple from Topeka, because she thinks that she and her boyfriend will be very good parents.

"It was an awesome experience for me, seeing and holding this baby who was literally minutes away from death at Tiller's abortion chamber on December 2nd," said Mark.

"What surprised me the most, was what had made Andrea change her mind."

Why did Andrea change her mind about aborting her baby on that winter day last December?

"Because of the Crosses, and the people at the gate." Andrea went on to clarify. "Suddenly I asked myself, what am I doing in here? I knew I had to leave! I did not want to have one of those Crosses out there be there for my baby."

Sage Elisabeth owes her life to the faithful obedience of Mark, Terry, and Anna to "rescue those being drawn toward death," and to the steadfast love of her young mother, who refused to give up on her precious baby.

Life will continue to present its challenges to this family, but with the help of friends like Billie, and Mark, they can now face the future with hope.

Another little preamble...

STANEK: Is a crying baby alive? ...(excerpts)

Wednesday, October 01, 2003 OPINION — Is a crying baby alive?

No, not necessarily, decided Cook County Circuit Court Judge Karen Thompson last November when she acquitted a mother previously convicted twice of murdering her newborn daughter.

In question is whether a six-pound, 19-inch baby girl was "completely separated" at delivery when her mother, Elizabeth Ehlert, killed her.

Cook County State's Attorney Dick Devine has asked the Illinois Supreme Court to intervene, arguing that "complete separation" would mean the umbilical cord must be cut...

Fiscal Year 2005

The Action for Life Fiscal Year ended June 30, 2005. Thanks to our faithful donors, and the great volunteers at The Rose Garden, and the great effort that went into the annual dinner and the ad book, we continue to stay in operation and pay all our bills. (The dinner has had an up and down history. While it always promoted its educational function, lately it also has become another needed revenue source.)

Along with our regular bills, our expenditures included financing the News Letter, Mothers' Day ad, Pro-Life Library, the Pro-Life Essay Program, and Pro-Life newspaper ads, especially in our High School publications. In January we financed a day in Naples with the "Truth Trucks" of Operation Rescue, and helped send Ave Maria students going to the January 22 March for Life in Washington. We also assisted in financing some Collier County Abstinence (CCAP) Programs. We even helped buy a projector for a local Pro-Life speaker and helped finance the training of another local Natural Family Planning Consultant. For all your generous support, we thank you.

Computer News...

For several months you may have noticed that our Web Site was inoperable. Thanks to the efforts of volunteers Toni Morelock, Jim Capuzzi and Frank A. Farren, the site is now operational and continuing to be updated. We needed to change our Web Site address. We now have two addresses: actionforlifenaples.org and actionforlifenaples.net

We purchased a new computer last year and are revising and upgrading our office procedures. Thanks to volunteer, Jerry Clancy, for his work in this area. To really maximize the potential of our computer system we could use a regular volunteer with some serious experience with the XP Operating system.

Pro-Life E-mail...

actionforlife@earthlink.net

We are trying to start a project for all our readers who have e-mail. It could replace mailing newsletters to some. It could also be an "in between" way of handling emergency type news. It could be especially used for legislation that comes up, both state and national, concerning the life issues. With the right technical help at our end, the possibilities are endless! The sign-up is very simple, just e-mail, (see above) with your e mail address and tell us to sign you up!

The Rose Garden, our very own thrift store, has been blessed for several years with dedicated volunteers who have kept it open Monday thru Saturday (closed Mon. during the summer) from 10 am to 4 pm. The Rose Garden provides quite a bit of our financial support. There is a need for donations (tax write-offs), especially furniture in good condition. Call for pick-up if needed. Along with a continual need for regular Rose Garden volunteers, the picking up of the many large furniture donations presents a special volunteer need. We would really welcome inquiries in this area. Otherwise, this SOS is mainly for volunteers for The Rose Garden who are able to donate a few hours a week.

Current Pro-Life Issues...never allowed...

Embryonic stem cell science is never good because it has to kill embryos (people) in order to possibly benefit others...see below...(in the past, we have run explanations about something similar called in vitro fertilization, also based on creating, freezing and killing test tube embryos. These embryos have the same priceless value as the embryos created in the womb that eventually grow into all of us)

Supreme Court Judges...Single Issue Voter ???

Here it is, the day (7/20/05) after someone has been nominated for the Supreme Court vacancy. All we hear, like a broken record, from all the "so called" unbiased mainstream media, is speculation about his position on Roe v Wade/Abortion. Also, the pro-abortion promoters push Roe v Wade as "settled law" or the national mainstream viewpoint (As we read above, Roe v Wade seems to say that abortion is "ok" until someone "cuts the cord." Is that "mainstream?"). Don't forget, also, that in 1857 we had "Dred Scott" from the Supreme Court. It made slavery "settled law." Slavery has long since vanished from our legal landscape. There is no reason why abortion can't vanish as well. Those supporting abortion (who are super "single issue" people) will push the argument that the pro-life voters shouldn't be "single issue" voters. They are hoping that it will cause enough of us to foolishly change our voting priorities, giving them their "single issue pro-abortion" victory. When it's time for anyone to vote, don't fall for being belittled as a single issue voter on abortion. If you pay careful attention, those that belittle you, guess what, vote strictly based on abortion.

Who is Planned Parenthood...

Have you ever heard someone say that Planned Parenthood does some good. We are going to present below, in several ways, that nothing could be "farther from the truth." For starters, we always refer to the two Planned Parenthood web sites: "planned parenthood" and "teen wire." Read the "advice" from this "parents are a plus but not a must" organization to our children and grandchildren.

For instance...WHY THE FIGHT OVER PARTIAL BIRTH ABORTION (excerpts)

By Jon Christian Ryter, June 5, 2004, NewsWithViews.com
A Clinton-appointed U.S. District Court Judge for Northern California ruled unconstitutional the partial birth abortion ban that was overwhelmingly passed by Congress and signed into law by President George W. Bush last year. The California case, filed by Planned Parenthood, and decided by US District Court Judge Phyllis Hamilton... In a strongly worded opinion that accused Congress of deliberately misrepresenting scientific facts concerning the procedure, Hamilton decided because of that "perceived misrepresentation," the law was unconstitutional. How did Hamilton know Congress misrepresented the "scientific evidence" ...only that Planned Parenthood's lawyers argued that Congress was wrong ... What is at issue, and what is not being discussed by anyone is the monetary value of the unborn fetus—if it is delivered intact and undamaged by saline solutions or the abortionist's scalpel.... That value is found in the (profitable) harvesting of much needed body parts...

Sanger's Control of Female Fertility... (In her own words) (excerpts)

By Angela Franks... From: Population Research Institute (www.pop.org)

Margaret Sanger (1879-1966), the founder of Planned Parenthood... Intimately linked with her belief in the goodness and necessity of birth control, was a eugenic desire to control the reproduction of the *unfit*...

Population control was a natural extension of Sanger's eugenic desire for population *quality, not quantity*... Thus, the concern for reducing the number of people born was interwoven with the eugenic desire to reduce the number of *unfit* people born...

(See Sanger's 1920 book Woman and the New Race)... The most immoral practice of the day is breeding too many children... Social workers, physicians and reformers cry out to stop the breeding of these, who must exist in want until they become permanent members of the ranks of the unfit.* As a result, birth control must be aimed at the unfit: *Birth control itself... is nothing more or less than the facilitation of the process of weeding out the unfit, of preventing the birth of defectives or of those who will become defectives...

...all we see as the source of such a woman's problems is her fertility... and if she refuses to acknowledge this reality, it is for her own good, so the reasoning goes, to persuade or demand or force her to stop having children.

March of Dimes (reprint from 3/04) - (we forgot it 3/05) Source: Elliot Institute; February 10, 2003 Abortion's Link to Premature Birth is No Mystery

by David Reardon (excerpts)

The March of Dimes has announced a major fund raising effort to understand and battle premature deliveries. March of Dimes medical director Dr. Nancy Green told Time magazine that the 27 percent rise in premature births over the last few decades "is a mystery."

(<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1101030210-4185>59,00.html>)

Dr. Green's claim that the rise in premature birth rates is a mystery reflects either a distressing ignorance of the medical literature or a calculated case of selective recall. At least 48 published studies have shown significantly higher risk of premature birth and low birth weight deliveries among women with a history of abortion. (1-48) The only real mystery surrounding the 27 percent rise in premature delivery rates among the post-Roe generation of women is why the March of Dimes has failed to call attention to this major risk factor. The March of Dimes professes that its position on abortion is one of neutrality.

But the fact that the March of Dimes encourages prenatal screening for birth defects that can only be "treated" by abortion does not support the claim that they are neutral. ... (http://www.marchofdimes.com/aboutus/791\_6775.asp)

The list of 48 studies showing abortion's relationship to premature birth and low birth rate deliveries compiled by Brent Rooney can be found at <http://www.vcn.bc.ca/~whatsup/APB-Major.html>

We need nurses committed in protecting our professional integrity. We need nurses committed in protecting our patients from harm.

Some of the issues we have currently researched involve assisted suicide, euthanasia, terminal sedation, hastening death, futile care theory, and non-heart beating organ donation.

Some of us have participated in interventions involving starvation and dehydration of another person.

Ideal for media interviews, school board meetings, and to give to your state health officials and political leaders, these booklets are multi-functional. ## Life Decisions International (LDI) (www.fightpp.org) professionally represents the pro-life position in Washington, D.C., and other capital cities by opposing the radical Planned Parenthood agenda. LDI offers proven strategies and information to individuals and organizations fighting Planned Parenthood, empowering citizens at the grassroots to challenge the organization in their local communities. LDI articulately represents the pro-life/pro-family position to the media.

Testimony... With every issue of The Caleb Report and LDI's Special Reports, I get more truth and more powerful information than I get from the rest of the "civilized" world.

Testimony... I support LDI because of the encouraging work you are doing. Many, many years ago a friend told me about your organization. I sent for a Boycott List. I was excited that someone felt the burden of the evil that Planned Parenthood was doing to our women. I immediately started boycotting everyone on the List,...

Action for Life is our all volunteer pro-life organization. Especially, in season, it provides and coordinates pro-life direction. Our Board meets once a month. We are in need of a few more volunteers to help keep the office, with its pro-life library and resources, open every afternoon. In addition to a regular answering machine that takes messages even when someone is on the phone, we also maintain an off-hours call forwarding.

Regular volunteers mostly get involved in clerical type activity. We also have computer needs involving our database and our e mail. We generate labels for our mailings and, also, any necessary reports. As stated above, with occasional volunteer help involving serious computer skills, we could get better use of the potential offered by our computer. Give us a call... 262-0444 (Rose Garden) or 262-5433 (Office) if you can help. You won't be sorry!!!

Mother's Day Ad...

Although it's ancient history, we still wanted to thank again those people who made our 2005 Mother's Day Ad, its usual success. We did have some computer problems and some people accidentally got left out. We hope they all were notified when it happened. Also, other ads arrived after our deadline with the paper and, also, didn't get included. Some were notified. This, we hope, is an explanation, to all the others.

We have been dealing with The Naples Daily News for many years in producing our Mother's Day Ad and we always get excellent cooperation for excellent results. We even hear occasionally, of visitors starting up similar Mother's Day Ads in their own home towns. In spite of the ever increasing expense of this full page color Sunday ad, we hope to continue producing it. The usual excellent response shows that it serves a need for people who want to participate in public pro-life support.

Terri Schiavo ...Rest in Peace...

On the morning of March 31st, after 13 days of starvation, Terri died.

She was an obviously brain-damaged woman. (of unknown origin...not bulimia) Shortly after her problem began, (15 years ago) Terri's then husband obtained a financial settlement of over a million dollars, specifically to work on whatever rehabilitation was possible. Shortly after that he became her estranged husband, living with another woman who bore two of his children.

Some time later, with a new lawyer, well known for his connection with the "right-to-die" movement, this estranged husband remembered that Terri had clearly said that she would not like to live in such a disabled condition. Finally, this year, Terri lost a long legal battle and her life.

All the key issues were distorted by the national media. She was never on life support...only food. (she wasn't allowed to die...she was murdered). She never got rehabilitation. (some stories seemed to say that no one was even allowed to give her the support of touching her!!!) Only the medical statements supported by her estranged husband seemed to be accepted in the legal process.

In a long forgotten issue of this newsletter we ran a story of a helpless patient who kept asking for food. She didn't know that someone else had decided to starve her to death. (like Terri) The real issue involved in Terri's murder is not whether or not there was a living will. Pro-life teaching doesn't promote murder or suicide. People who are living (and eating) will continue to live. People who are dying will die. Medical care should return to healing the sick and comforting the dying. How, as a civilized society, did we ever get into the "starving people to death" business.

President Bush Still Opposes Embryonic Stem Cell Research (excerpts)

by Steven Ertelt - LifeNews.com Editor, June 9, 2004
Washington, DC (LifeNews.com) — First Lady Laura Bush says President Bush is still opposed to the use of embryonic stem cells in research, despite lobbying from the research community and Nancy Reagan.

Though an increasing number of people will contract the diseases scientists claim embryonic stem cells could cure, "We need to balance the interest in science with moral issues," Mrs. Bush said on NBC's "Today" show....

On Sunday, Washington Post television reviewer Tom Shales complained about how "Bush has refused to reconsider his opposition" to providing taxpayer funding for any new embryonic stem cell research, and ridiculed how "Bush thinks he hears Jesus giving him orders."

Action for Life – The Rose Garden... SOS

"Sleepy little Naples" has had an active and visible pro-life organization since 1972. Some of the time someone ran it from their home. Recently it has been in nice (reasonable) rented office space. It houses a pro-life library. Volunteers try to be present every afternoon. It also serves as a meeting place for various allied organizations. In other words, a visible pro-life group is very worthwhile. It is also an all volunteer operation.
